Apple 2GB iPod nano Black

Call it astonishing. Unbelievable. Impossible, even. Then pick it up and hold it in your hand. Take in the brilliant color display. Run your thumb around the Click Wheel. Put on the earbuds and turn up your music. That's when everything becomes clear: It's an iPod.

It holds up to three days' worth of music. It plays for up to 14 hours between battery charges. It displays the color album art for the song you're listening to right now. It carries your photos, podcasts and audiobooks. It syncs seamlessly with iTunes. It connects to a host of iPod accessories. Simply put, iPod nano is 100-percent iPod. And then some.

Apple Announces 16GB iPhone, 32GB iPod Touch posted Tuesday, February 05, 2008 - 12:31

Today Apple announced that its iPhone and iPod touch lineups feature new models with double the memory.

The new 16GB iPhone retails for $499 while the 8GB unit stays put at $399. The new 32GB iPod touch retails for $499, with the 16GB and 8GB models maintaining their $399 and $299 price tags.

"For some users, there's never enough memory," said Greg Joswiak, Apple's vice president of Worldwide iPod and iPhone Product Marketing. "Now people can enjoy even more of their music, photos and videos on the most revolutionary mobile phone and best Wi-Fi mobile device in the world."

The new models are available immediately.

Apple Announces Pink iPod Nano posted Sunday, February 03, 2008 - 09:31

Late last month Apple formally announced the availability of a much-requested pink, third-generation iPod nano.

The much-requested pink iPod nano is available immediately in an 8GB model for $199. iPod nano features a two-inch display which lets users watch the brand new iTunes(R) Movie Rentals, or TV shows and music videos purchased from the iTunes Store. iPod nano delivers up to 24 hours of audio playback or five hours of video playback on a single charge and is encased in a beautiful all-metal design made with anodized aluminum and polished stainless steel, which is also available in silver, black, blue, green and a (PRODUCT) RED special edition.*

Apple Games: Pole Position: Remix For iPod

posted Tuesday, January 29, 2008 - 06:4

iPod game enthusiasts have a look at Apple's latest game title for the iPod, Pole Position: Remix. A modern remake of the '80s retro classic Pole Position, this iPod incarnation looks great and is ideally suited to the iPod's clickwheel control mechanism.

Pole Position: Remix brings the 1980s arcade classic to the iPod with all of the features you remember, including a cockpit view of the action, racing speeds in excess of 200 MPH, oil slicks that make you lose control, and collisions that produce wheel-bouncing explosions. A new track, Misaki Point, joins four existing ones: Namco, Speedway, Wonder, and Seaside.

During a race, complete each lap within the time limit to earn extra seconds, with your final score based on the distance you traveled and the number of rival cars you passed. Crashes take time off the clock, so be careful. The faster you finish the race, the higher you'll place. Do well and you'll unlock reversed and mirrored versions of the tracks, as well as graphical themes based on other classic Namco games, including PAC-MAN, Galaga and Dig-Dug. The Retro and Neopolis themes even change the environment.

Pole Position: Remix is compatible with the 3G iPod Nano, the 5G iPod, and the iPod classic.

Unlocked iPhones May Be Costing Apple $300 Million posted Monday, January 28, 2008 - 09:0

It is estimated that 1/3 of all iPhones are SIM unlocked, being used on carriers other than AT&T. This substantial portion of iPhones sold heading to the greymarket is costing Apple $300 to $500 million in future revenues and profits, says Bernstein Research's Apple specialist Toni Sacconaghi.

mo

If Apple were to somehow stop the sale of unlocked iPhones (by forcing customers to activate them at the point of purchase, say) the company might miss its target of selling 10 million iPhones in 2008 — and forgo even more revenue and profit.

But if Apple does nothing, it gets hit with a double whammy. Not only are its healthy gross margins reduced (unlocked iPhones generate 50% less revenue for Apple and 70-75% less profit, according to Sacconaghi), but growing new markets overseas gets harder. If the company can't stop the flow of unlocked iPhones into a country like China, what's the incentive for a Chinese carrier to pay the stiff premium Apple demands for the right to be that country's exclusive carrier?

Sacsonaghi believes that Apple will have difficulty in meeting its goal of 10 million iPhones sold by the end of 2008. Most other analysts would disagree with him on this point.

Jailbreak For iPhone Firmware 1.1.3 Released posted Saturday, January 26, 2008 - 03:0

It's been all the buzz for the last few days in the iPhone news circle. Savvy hacker Nate True has released a jailbreak application for the recently release iPhone firmware v1.1.3.

In order to take advantage of this hack you need to be running a jailbroken iPhone running firmware v1.1.2 or v1.1.1.

Before you get started, be sure you've got at least 1GB of free space on your computer, 300MB of free RAM, and 300MB of free space on your iPhone. Got all that? Then let's do it. I'm just going to document the entire jailbreak with Nate's iBrickr application, so we're talking lots of pictures (the app walks you through the process wonderfully, but pictures are always comforting).

mo

First go download the iBrickr Special 1.1.3 jailbreak edition to your Windows computer (this works on any iPhone, whether you regularly sync it to a Mac or Windows PC, by the way) and unzip the archive or grab the 1.1.3 Package Maker for OS X (also available from Nate True's site).

For the complete how-to, see LifeHacker's recently-posted guide.

Will Apple circumvent this hack with an update tied to the February release of the iPhone / iPod touch SDK? Time will tell....

Apple: How About A Music Visualizer For iPhone??

posted Wednesday, January 23, 2008 - 04:1

The iPhone features a powerful mobile processor and obviously is graphically up to the challenge, so to speak. Am I the only one that would love to occasionally zone out to some psychedelic graphical music visualization on the high-DPI screen of my iPhone or iPod touch?

Am I alone in this? Apple?

Apple Ships 22.1 Million iPods, 2.3 Million iPhones Q1 2008

posted Tuesday, January 22, 2008 - 09:2

Apple recently revealed their Q1 2008 financial results...and they were impressive. Record breaking, actually.

Apple posted revenue of $9.6 billion and a net quarterly profit of $1.58 billion during the first quarter of 2008 (which ended December 29th, 2007). Compared to the year-ago quarter, Apple's revenue was up $2.5 billion.

Apple shipped 22,121,000 iPods during the quarter (5% unit growth and 17% revenue growth) and 2,315,000 iPhones.

"We're thrilled to report our best quarter ever, with the highest revenue and earnings in Apple's history," said Steve Jobs, Apple's CEO. "We have an incredibly strong new product pipeline for 2008, starting with MacBook Air, Mac Pro and iTunes Movie Rentals in the first two weeks."

"Apple's revenue grew 35 percent year-over-year to $9.6 billion, an increase of almost $2.5 billion over the previous December quarter's record-breaking results," said Peter Oppenheimer, Apple's CFO. "Our strong results produced cash flow from operations of over $2.7 billion during the quarter, yielding an ending cash balance of over $18.4 billion. Looking ahead to the second quarter of fiscal 2008, we expect revenue of about $6.8 billion and earnings per diluted share of about $.94."

iPhone Software 1.1.3 Jailbroken

posted Sunday, January 20, 2008 - 04:0

Just days after the iPhone software 1.1.3 update was released it has been jailbroken by the iPhone Dev Team and Elite Team. The groups involved have indicated that they will not release the 1.1.3 jailbreak before Apple releases the iPhone Software Development Kit (SDK) sometime in February to prevent Apple from disabling the jailbreak in software associated with the SDK.

Bilan du MacWorld : l'iPhone

commentaire

17 Janvier 2007 • 22:17 par zeta_sd (contributeur)

Comme vous le savez tous, Apple nous avait promis de grandes choses pour la MacWorld 2007, et just Apple a tenu ces promesses.

Lors de sa keynote, Steve Jobs, a annoncé le lancement de l'iPhone, une pure merveille de technologie téléphone ultra-fin, équipé d'un écran tactile qui tourne sous une version allégée de Mac OS X. Apple s'est associé avec Google et Yahoo pour proposer des fonctionnalités impressionnantes !

Ce téléphone risque fort de révolutionner le monde de la téléphonie mobile !

Voici sa fiche technique :

Taille d'écran : 3.5 pouces.

Résolution: 320 par 480 pixels pour une résolution de 160ppi

Ecran : tactile

Logiciel d'exploitation : Mac OS X

Stockage: 4GB ou 8GB

GSM: Quadruple-bande (mégaHertz : 850, 900, 1800, 1900)

Données sans fil: Wi-Fi (802.11b/g) + EDGE + Bluetooth 2.0

Batterie: Jusqu'à 5 heures de conversation/wifi/vidéo et Jusqu'à 16 heures de lecture en mode musique !

Dimensions: 115 x 61 x 11.6 mm

Poids: 135 grammes

Il sera disponible aux Etats-Unis en juin au prix de 499$ pour le modèle de 4Go et 599$ pour le modèle de 8Go. Ces prix impliquent souscription à un abonnement de 2 ans à l'opérateur de téléphonie mobile Cingular.

L'iPhone sera disponible en Europe à la fin de l'année.

Hélas, aucun nouvel iPod vidéo n'a été annoncé. Il faudra encore patienter...

Welcome to the home of the iPodLinux

Project (<http://sourceforge.net/projects/ipodlinux/>)! iPodLinux is an open source venture into porting Linux onto the iPod (<http://www.apple.com/ipod/>). So far, we have successfully ported a customized uClinux (<http://www.uclinux.org>) kernel to the iPod, and written a simple user interface for it dubbed podzilla.

Additional applications and modules have been written, adding many capabilities not found in Apple's firmware.

iPodLinux currently works on all iPod generations except on 2nd/3rd generation iPod nanos and 6th generation iPod classics. Donations always help when it comes to supporting new hardware. Progress can be tracked on the Project Status.

At ifrogz we strive to bring you the best Apple iPod™ and MP3 player accessories available on the market today. Our original case revolutionized the way people looked at cases for their iPods™ and we continue to develop new and innovative accessories that offer unrivaled protection and style for all your digital electronics.

Beginning with our customizable silicone iPod cases and the tadpole ipod case for kids we have continually expanded our line of iPod accessories.

Made of 100% polished silicone for superior quality and to help repel lint and dust. They are not thin and flimsy like some iPod cases, but instead offer superior protection due to our proprietary manufacturing process. Not only is the screen and click wheel protected with the rest of your iPod but the inputs are also protected when they are not in use by the custom bandz, which wraps the case. Check out the ifrogz case reviews to see what others are saying about our cases.

Our water resistant ibagz are a great compliment to any of our ifrogz cases and covers whether you're running in the rain or going out for a paddle. It will keep your iPod safe from moisture, sand, dust and more and works with any case.

Been trying to get that video on to your iPod for days with no success? Our iPod and ring-tone software makes it easy to copy music, movies and other media easily from other iPods or your computer. You can also create your own ringtone from music or other sound files.

Rockbox – Alternative iPod Firmware

Posted by igear at 12:43 AM |

Category: iPods

An upcoming alternative firmware for the iPod called Rockbox allows users to replace their iPod's firmware (operating system) with a custom one. Rockbox offers many advanced features for audiophiles... including much more adjustments and customization. Since the code is open, users are encouraged to create their own themes as the one pictured here.

It's still in development, and you do have to give up some of niceties that Apple offers – such as iTunes syncing and Protected AAC (iTunes Music Store) song playback. But, hey, you get OGG support...

ary of PortalPlayer's announcement that their media chip was not chosen by Apple for their next generation flash-based iPods.

"An executive from Samsung said the company won the MP3 media processor business for Apple's next-generation iPods."

Samsung has reportedly been working on the design for some time with Apple. The chip is a 32-bit processor based on ARM technology.

Samsung also supplies much of the Flash RAM for Apple's iPods. PortalPlayer's stock took a nosedive following last week's news.

from the other day, it appears that these fake iPods are actually very popular items. TaipeiTimes reports that the iPod nano knockoffs are flying off the shelves making it difficult to keep up the demand.

This particular brand of fake is called the "Nano Apple" and is made in China and marketed in Taiwan. They come in 512MB, 1GB and 2GB sizes, are 1/2 the price of Apple's iPod and also support Video.

According to the report, the company provides customer support/service for the units after they are sold.

"We provide after-sales service and irresistible functions that a real iPod nano is not able to offer. It is a simply a matter of supply and demand"

Altec Lansing inMotion iM7 Photo Review

Posted by igear at 08:14 PM |

Category: Speakers

The Altec Lansing inMotion

iM7 is a speaker system for the Apple

iPod that allows you to dock your iPod and enjoy your songs in any room in the house. Altec Lansing's inMotion iM7 features an iPod cradle, both AC and Battery Power, Remote Control and Video Output for video-capable iPods.

Forum user dietcokevanilla spent some time looking at various iPod speaker systems and finally settled on the inMotion iM7 and is happy with her decision. In summary:

Pros:

Sleek design, which encases the iPod in its own little cradle.

Excellent sound-quality, even at high volume.

Remote control included – and a slot to keep it safe.

Cons:

A little large for regular transportation compared to some of the other speaker systems, but still "portable". (A carry bag is available to purchase separately.)

8GB and 10GB iPod

Nanos on the Way?

Posted by igear at 07:59 PM |

Category: News & Rumors

T3 reports that

Apple will be launching new 8GB and 10GB iPod Nanos this summer -- at least, that's what Piper Jaffary analyst Gene Munster is claiming.

Munster thinks the full-fledge video iPod won't be coming for some time, so Apple needs something to keep customers interested in the meanwhile.

Apple's nano comes in 1GB, 2GB and 4GB sizes for now.

PortalPlayer Losing Apple's Business?

Posted by igear at 10:52 PM |

Category: News & Rumors

PortalPlayer

has been a major component supplier for the Apple iPod from the start.

The company, however, has had a major setback today when it was announced that Apple will be switching from PortalPlayer to another supplier for chips in some of its iPod product line. PortalPlayers next media processor chip will not be used in Apple's new mid-range and high-end flash-based iPods.

The company does believe "that the [current chip] will continue to be used in other members of the iPod family. "

PortalPlayer generates about 90% of their sales from Apple's iPod alone.

8.5 Million iPods Sold in Q2 2006

Posted by igear at 07:14 PM |

Category: News & Rumors

Apple released their 2nd Quarter 2006 Financial Results.

The iPod continues to sell well and sold over 8.5 million iPods during this quarter. This is up 61% from the same quarter last year. Apple's profits rose 41% this quarter with net income up to $410 million or 47 cents a share, from $290 million, or 34 cents, a year earlier.

Remember... Apple sold a record 14 million iPods during the holiday quarter for 2005. Apple's been doing so well in recent years, they will be opening a 50-acre campus near its current headquarters. The new campus will take three or four years to complete.
